Improve Streets First, Members Of Board Insist

Improved Street Lighting Second on List of Village Needs

Street improvements will get first consideration in the village in the opinion of most of the members of the village board of trustees.

When the subject of lighting was brought to the attention of the board by Irving Carey representing the Lions club, a discussion by the board resulted in a determination to improve the streets first.

"I'm for the improved lighting of the business section, but I'm for improvement of our streets first, they're more important," said Trustee Merrill Cunningham, chairman of the street and lighting committee.

"If we don't do something about our streets, I will be against the lighting project," he asserted.

The action sought by the Lions is the arrangement with Michel and Associates, engineering consultants of Chicago, to have them map the lighting plans and supervise the work at a commission of 5 per cent of the cost if the project goes through.

Trustee Carl A. Wolfenbarger thought that no harm could be done getting the plans and estimates if no charges were to be made unless the village were financially able to go ahead with the work, but Attorney E. C. Jacobs anticipated a time limit clause in the contract.

Trustee Arthur M. Hawkins said he couldn't see the necessity of further estimates when they have already been given by the Chicago firm and the Northern Illinois Public Service Co.

Mayor James McMillen said that no money is available now and nothing could be done until the state ruled on the use of gas tax money.

Comment was made that the village already has obtained plans and specifications for the widening of Orchard street and it is the custom of the state not to start a second project until the first is completed.

The proposal for modern lighting for the business district remains unfinished business.

Vogel Makes "Fair Play" Appeal To Lake County Voters

A new note was injected into the current political campaign this week when Harold A. (Hud) Vogel, Republican candidate for Representative in the General Assembly, announced that his campaign in Lake county would be based on a "fair-play" appeal.

Vogel, who is a resident of McHenry county explained that since Lake county ordinarily polls more than twice as many votes as do the other two counties in the district, that without some support in Lake county, election of a McHenry or Boone county man is almost impossible.

For this reason he is appealing to the Lake county voter's sense of "fair play" and asking for support here.

The belief that most people are essentially fair-minded, and that they will see the necessity for fairness in this case, has led Vogel to make his appeal for votes on this basis, although he has fine qualifications for the job also.

He adds that the two western counties have not had a Republican Representative for more than 20 years.

Vogel was born in Richmond, Ill., in 1910 and has been a life-long resident of McHenry county. He was educated at Richmond-Burton high school. He has been employed by the State Finance department for the past eight years. The Vogel family is well-known throughout the territory, having been pioneer residents of the community. The first Vogel having settled at Richmond more than 100 years ago.

Chicago Decorators Set Up Local Agency for Wares

Roberts Interior Decorators of 3140 Broadway, Chicago, managed by Joseph Pisciotto, have arranged to handle local business through an agent placed in Antioch.

A display will be set up at the Ford garage where orders will be taken for slipcovers, drapery and upholstery. The firm also includes in its manufacturing studio covers, bed spreads, curtains, plastic covers, cornices, balances and other articles pertaining to home decoration.

March 18 Deadline for School Board Filing

March 18 has been set as the last day for filing of candidacies for school boards.

In Antioch the term of Walter K. Hills as a member of the township high school board of which he is president will end. It is probable that he will be a candidate for reelection.

At the grade school the terms of Emil R. Lubkeman, president, Art Larson and Henry Rentner, board members will end. The date for election is set for Saturday, April 8, 1950.

Prominent Sports Writer To Address Lake Villa Community Men's Club

Harry MacNamara, one of the country's best known sports writers, will be the principal speaker at the next meeting of the Lake Villa Community Men's club to be held at 7 p. m. Tuesday in the Lake Villa school gymnasium, Milwaukee and Grand Ave.

MacNamara is expected to tell many inside stories of sports and sports celebrities with whom he has been on intimate terms for nearly 30 years. He first started writing about the nation's top athletics on the old Chicago Herald and Examiner in 1921. He remained with that paper until it consolidated with the Chicago Evening American in 1939, and then became associated with the Chicago Herald-American.

When the Chicago Sun started operation in 1941 he went with them in an executive sports capacity and remained until the consolidation of the Sun and Times in 1948.

At that time he returned to the Herald-American where he is currently handling top sports assignments. He recently concluded a revealing series on the inside story of professional wrestling.

According to Jere Hagen, president of the club, MacNamara will not only tell many anecdotes about sports figures, but promises to answer any and all of the members' questions from the floor.

"However," he added, "perhaps we should say this advisedly. Even the gifted MacNamara admits there are one or two questions he can't answer. He's just hoping that none of us will think of these."

Committee reports on the opening of a township library the club is sponsoring and resumption of Boy Scout activities top the business portion of the program, and Swiss steak with trimmings heads the menu.

Vagabond Poet to Speak During Family Night at Methodist Church Tuesday

Franklin Lee Stevenson, known as the "Vagabond Poet" will give one of his entertaining programs during Family Night 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening at the Methodist church in Antioch.

Always with a hankering to find out what American people are thinking Mr. Stevenson has for the past 15 years been in each of the 48 states each year. Recently he covered more than 60,000 miles by box-car, truck, hiking and airplane so as to get into the very heart throbs of his subjects.

Mr. Stevenson's works appear in more newspapers than do Edgar Guest's. His poems are currently appearing in more than 600 newspapers. Albert Payson Terhune, who has written so many recent dog stories in the Saturday Evening Post said to him, "You have a rare gift of poetical expression."

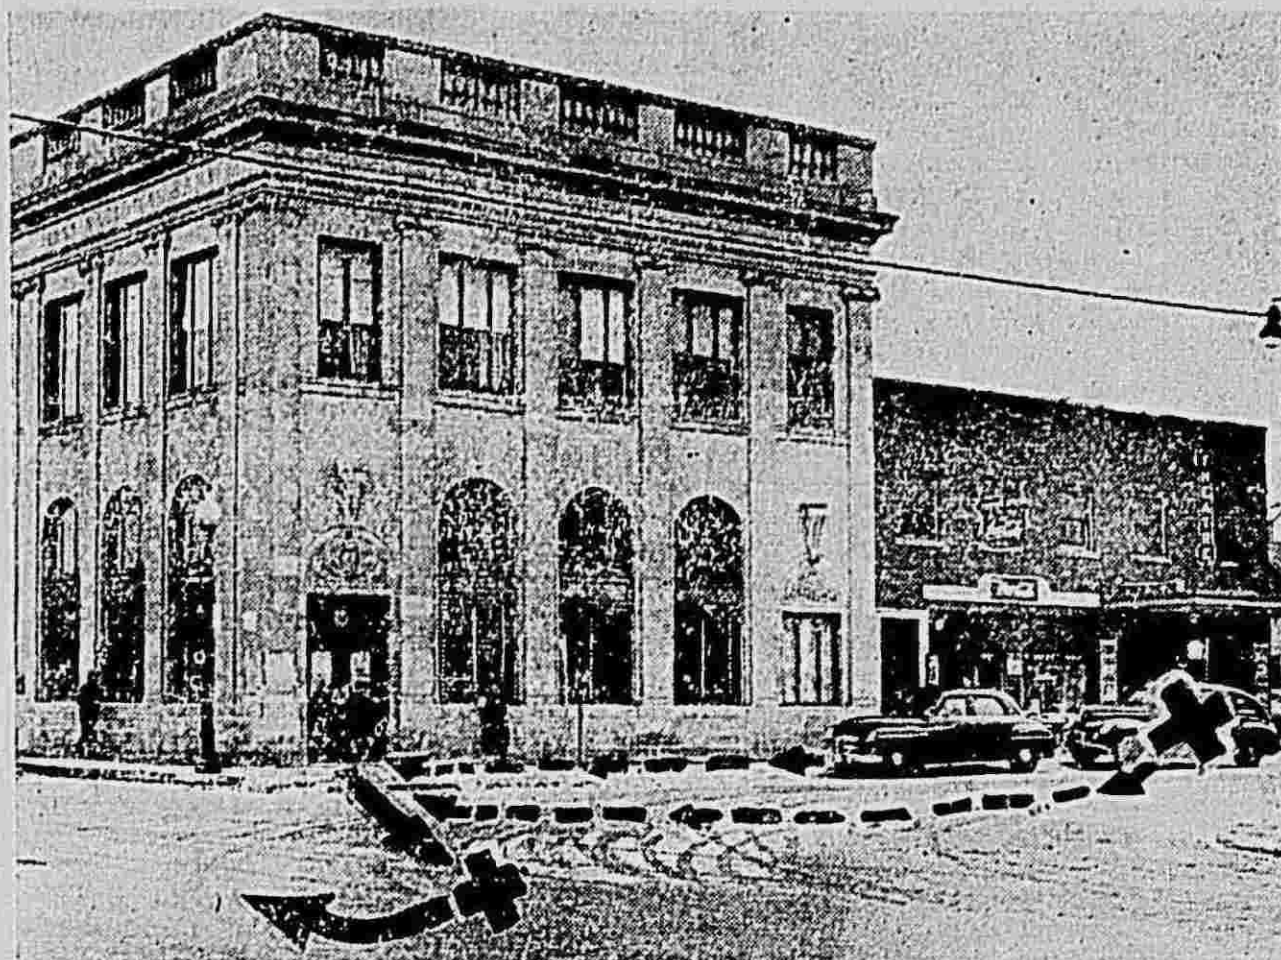

Among his many accomplishments are: President of the Chicago Press Writers Club, Counsellor of Technique of the Illinois Society of Press Writers. At one time he was asked to fill the position of professor of journalism at DePaul University.

The monthly Family Night at the Methodist church is a pot luck supper to which the members and friends of the Church are cordially invited. Everyone is asked to bring their own table service. Coffee is served by the Woman's Society. The entire program is without cost.

Parents of Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Smock of Lake Andeas, S. Dak., are the parents of a 9 pound baby girl, born March 6. The Smocks are former residents of Antioch. Mrs. Smock was formerly Miss Gertrude Horton, the daughter of Joseph Horton of Antioch.

National Bank Robbed

The three men who robbed the First National Bank of Antioch shortly before 2 o'clock Friday afternoon parked their car in front of the Antioch theatre in the spot marked by an X. Dotted lines trace the bandits' path into the bank. One robber, carrying a shotgun, walked in the street, while his redheaded companion walked along the sidewalk. The solid line shows their exit route and the spot (X) where the driver of the getaway car picked them up. The car, a 1950 model Ford was last seen speeding south on Rte. 21.

Insurance Covers Loss of $5183 Taken by Bandits

Bruno Schubauer, 69, of Lk. Catherine Struck By Holdup Man

In the hands of the Federal Bureau of Investigation is the capture of three men who last Friday afternoon held up the First National Bank of Antioch and sped away with $5,183.

The amount taken by the bandits has been made up in full through insurance which was paid Tuesday by Scarborough and Co. First National Bank Bldg., of Chicago.

Meanwhile the Illinois Banking association has a standing offer of $500 reward for the capture and conviction of the robbers.

The holdup occurred while nine patrons were in the lobby.

While a third man remained at the wheel of a car in front of the Antioch theatre two men, one masked carrying a sawed-off shotgun, entered the bank.

"This is a hold-up," the man with the gun told E. J. Sletten, cashier, who had just entered the cage from his open office space at the front of the lobby.

The man with the gun lined customers against the partition and when Bruno Schubauer, 63, of Lake Catherine, who is hard of hearing failed to understand the command, he struck him in the face with the stock of the gun, inflicting a severe wound.

Mrs. Edward Knickelbein, wife of the tavern owner, entered the bank at this time to make a deposit and she was shoved against the partition with the other patrons. Two of them became so weak that they sat on the floor.

In the meantime an unmasked man described as having red hair, and appearing to be in his early twenties, leaped over the low partition surrounding Mr. Sletten's desk, entered the cage passing between the cashier and the teller, Alice Pedersen, and scooped the money from the drawers into a paper shopping bag as he passed down the line of the teller's counters. Some said he has a pistol.

Spills Cash Drawer At the last counter where the robber passed by Tellers Jacques Koppen and Miss Jean Vos bumping against them, he became nervous and pulled the drawer out too far, dropping it to the floor with a crash and spilled the contents.

"This is enough, let's get out," he told his companion and they left, threatening to kill anyone who followed them.

The driver of the car pulled from the theatre to the bank and the two got in carrying the money and sped south on Main st.

Mr. Sletten saw no license plate on the front of the car as he ran out the door and yelled to Frank Kennedy, Shell station owner across the street to get the rear license number, telling him that the bank had been robbed. Kennedy could not get the sheriff's office by telephone immediately because of busy circuits, it was said, and the alarm was not broadcast until 15 minutes later.

Blocked by Freight Train The bandit car was said to have turned east on Rte. 173 and was blocked for a while by a passing Soo Line freight.

Joseph J. Sievrt, Skarda subdivision, Fox Lake came out of the A and P grocery store west of the bank just as the robbers emerged from their daylight holdup.

To Deputy Sheriff Norris Froelich he told of seeing the man carrying the gun.

"He had a light blue handkerchief over his face from his nose down. He was tall and wore a khaki hunting coat and dark trousers. The coat appeared old."

"If he had run or hurried, I would have thought something of it, but he didn't. He just looked at me because I was looking at him when I saw he had a shotgun. Then he glanced up the street and I glanced up too, and I saw a new black Ford barely rolling down Lake st. toward the highway. He got into it and rode away," said Sievrt.

He said he didn't see the red haired young man get in the car. He said others around the corner said they got the number of the license.

Lions Club Permitted To Use Park Diamond, Stage Annual Carnival

With the clerk and one member vacationing in Florida, the village board Tuesday evening transacted but little business.

It granted permission to the Lions club to recondition the ball diamond at the village park east of the Soo Line tracks and instructed it to schedule practice sessions and games so there will be no conflict in the use of the grounds.

The club spent $400 last year in building the diamond and may have to spend some more in conditioning it this year. Veterans organizations have supplied the amateur teams.

The board also granted the Lions permission to stage their carnival the first week in August at the Ackerman field. The dates are Aug. 2 to 6 inclusive.

No answer was given to the club on the proposal of improved lighting the business districts.

The Illinois Bell Telephone Co. will be given permission to lay cable on Depot st. at Main st. Orchard St. at Main St. and Main St. and Rte. 173.

Mrs. Martha Hunter served as clerk in the absence of L. D. Powles who is in Florida on vacation. Trustee Arthur Rosenfeldt also is in Florida.

Time Runs Out

"Time is running out—and so is coal," says the Chicago Journal of Commerce. "Congress has provided a great deal of yakety-yak this session but not a single major bill has been passed. We'd like to see a little action—on the coal front."

Recent events—whatever the future may bring—certainly pound home the need for action with volcanic force. It is clear that the coal miners think nothing of defying the government, the courts, the law, and the security of the country. These are the inevitable fruits of the union's long established tactics of disruption, economic dictatorship, and callous disregard of the public interest.

In any upheaval such as this, changing day-by-day events tend to obscure the basic issue. The New York World-Telegram and Sun came to the point when it said, "The fact is that the problem of national emergency strikes remains unsolved. And, in our opinion, it will not be solved until Congress deals with it at its root in the monopoly power of unions to place their own activities above national welfare, health and safety."

That is the big thing, whether or not the miners go back to work, whether or not a new contract agreement is reached, and whether or not the Taft-Hartley law proves effective. One union has a virtual monopoly over all coal labor. Every miner must belong to it, pay dues to it, and obey its orders, or he can't work. So long as such a monopoly exists, the whole country will be at the none-too-tender mercies of this small, infinitely powerful group.

From the Bottom of the Deck

The public power advocates in the government have a new scheme for advancing the cause of socialization of this basic, all-important service. In the process, if the scheme goes through, the clear intent of Congress will be circumvented, and local control over local farm electrification cooperatives formed with Rural Electrification Administration funds will be lost. The right of these cooperatives to buy electricity in the competitive market, or to produce electricity with their own facilities, will likewise vanish. Finally, the farmer who is without electric service will no longer have any guarantee that REA funds, theoretically appropriated to help him, will actually be used for that purpose.

Various authorities, including Senators and Representatives, think the whole scheme is illegal. But that, apparently, is no deterrent to the master minds in the Interior Department, the REA, and the Southwestern Power Administration, who are back of it.

Unfortunately, the mechanics of the scheme are complicated. But it will be a tragedy if those complications prevent the whole shady plan from being understood by the taxpayers, the farmers, and the general public. An excellent explanation of what is going on appeared in the Jackson, Mississippi, Daily News. Here, in part, is what that paper said: "The Southwestern Power Administration was formed by Presidential edict under the provisions of Section 5 of the Flood Control Act of 1944. The edict under which it was formed gives the Southwestern Power Administration authority to market electricity generated by hydro-electric plants built under supervision of army engineers but does not give it authority to build steam plants and existing statutes require that approval of Congress first be obtained for the building of specific lines in a given territory."

"The REA, however, is a mighty giant and the act under which it was created permits it to build steam generating plants without Congressional approval, and Congress provides it with enormous sums of money

"Now, here's how the sleight-of-hand trick is played that permits diversion of REA funds to any sort of concern, responsible or irresponsible."

"According to Douglas Wright, administrator of the Southwestern Power Association, in testimony recently given before a Congressional committee, 'negotiations with six co-operatives have been successfully completed. These cooperatives form what they call a 'supercooperative', and have entered into a contract with the Southwestern Power Association under which they will take over all power generated by a steam plant near Kansas City financed by the REA and will take over and operate high voltage transmission lines built by REA. SPA contracts to pay an annual rental of these lines for a period of some 35 or 40 years, at the end of which time the SPA will obtain title to lines built with the tax money of Mr. John Taxpayer, and the rental is based on a valuation far below actual construction cost."

"The whole scheme is tax-exempt, of course, and it sets the pattern that will doubtless be followed in an attempt to socialize the power industry in this country and put it under government control . . .

"If we are going to adopt a Socialist form of government we should go ahead and do so, openly and above board, and not resort to the by-passing of Congress and other underhanded methods of the most reprehensible sort."

"REA is doing some dirty dealing from the bottom of the deck."

SHORT STORY

'Helpless' Anne

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

THROUGH the opening in the trees above the woods road Langford could see the dull glow against the sky. It was growing brighter by the minute, and now the smell of smoke was strong in his ears there was the distant and ominous roar of crackling flames.

3 Minute Fiction

He stumbled forward, his breath a sobbing gasp in his throat, his face white and drawn from the strain of running. It seemed that he had run a thousand miles, though he knew it was not more than eight. Eight at the most. That meant there were still three to go before he reached the river. Then he'd have to swim across and make another mile up the slope to his cabin. By then it might be too late. By then the fire might have swept down on the little log structure and destroyed it, and what it contained. Anne and little Bobby. He closed his eyes to shut out the picture.

After a while he stood up and went on. The glow against the sky was brighter, bright red and orange and yellow. Against it he could see billowing smoke clouds and occasional showers of sparks. That meant the flames had reached the ridge behind the cabin. In another moment they would be sweeping down the slope toward his clearing.

His spirits sank. He choked as the smoke grew thicker and the air suffocating. Above him he heard the wail of a rising wind, and above the wind there was the increasing roar of the fire. Anne wouldn't understand until it was too late. She was helpless about such things.

It couldn't be much more than a mile, he told himself. He called on his last ounce of energy and fought ahead.

Suddenly a wild hope beat in his heart. He looked up and there at his very feet was water. The river! He had come faster than he thought. But abruptly the hope died. Looking across he stared into a solid sheet of flame and smoke belching sparks. The entire slope of the hill, which was between the river and his cabin, was afire.

Groaning, he sank to his knees. Before him the river hissed and steamed as flying fragments fell into it. Its black depths mirrored the licking tongues of flame with terrible beauty.

He called on the last ounce of energy and fought ahead.

Watching with horrible fascination, Langford's heart suddenly gave a bound. He leaped to his feet and plunged into the water, shouting. Fifty feet from shore a dark silhouette had come into the path of orange reflection, wabbling crazily but moving steadily toward the shore. Atop it, was a huddled bundle of something, that moved and propelled the silhouette forward with awkward, clumsy strokes.

LANGFORD WADED to his armpits and then started to swim. He called again and a voice answered him, telling him to go back. But he didn't. And presently the silhouette ranged alongside and Anne's frightened eyes were looking into his own.

"Bobby?" he gasped.

"He's here, under the blankets. And I saved the hens too, and a lot of our personal things."

Langford helped push the improvised raft ashore. But it wasn't until Anne had alighted and he had carried Bobby to safety that he discovered the raft was the hen-coop he'd made for Anne's chickens. Four or five boards were laid across its top and lashed together with part of the wire.

"It was the only thing I could carry," Anne was saying. "I took the boards from the fence. The chickens are all in the bur-lap bag, and our things are sunk in a box on the other side of the river."

Langford stared at her and for no accountable reason he began to laugh. It was a curious sound, not wholly rational. But the incongruity of it was justified, for it had occurred to him what a stupid fool he'd been to think Anne helpless.

SOCIETY EVENTS

Antioch Episcopalians To Hear Bishop Sherrill By Radio Next Sunday

For the past nine weeks the entire Episcopal Church has been engaged in a special activity resembling a gigantic school system. A campaign of education, referred to as "One World in Christ," is aimed at informing every member of the Episcopal Church about the program of work being done by the Church at home, overseas, and in the field of Christian Education.

It will consider the little urban and the little countryside church; work with special groups such as American Indians and parts of the 12,000,000 Negro population; the great task of Christianizing rural America; keeping in the Christian way the thousands of young men and women who are finding a new world away from home attending colleges and universities, caring for the spiritual needs of the men and women in the nation's armed forces on land and sea and air; ministering to the suffering in mind and body in veterans' hospitals; and resettlement of displaced persons from the results of war.

Here in Antioch members of the church of St. Ignatius of Antioch, led by their priest-in-charge, the Rev. Robert E. Ehrigott, will terminate the campaign Sunday, March 12, when Episcopal congregations, gathered into their churches in all parts of the country for the regular Sunday morning service, will hear, through radio receivers set up in the churches, the voice of the presiding bishop, the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, summarizing the objectives of the campaign, and asking the prayers, interest, and support of every member of every parish. The radio hookup arranged to transmit Bishop Sherrill's message will be one of the largest ever used for a church broadcast, and is comparable only to the hookups arranged for addresses by the President of the United States.

When at 11:30, the radio is turned on in churches all over the land, congregations will first hear the magnificent choir of St. Paul's Chapel of Trinity Parish, New York City, led by Mr. Andrew Tietjens, Director. Bishop Sherrill will speak, and following his address, the choir will sing another hymn.

People everywhere who are not in church will be able to hear Bishop Sherrill in their own homes through their own radio sets.

In Antioch the broadcast will come through radio stations WLS or WKRS at precisely 11:30 o'clock Sunday morning, March 12.

Mr. Ehrigott asks that any contributions be sent to Mrs. John Horan, Sr., Parish treasurer, in the event that persons are unable to attend the 11 o'clock service on the 12th.

"ONE GREAT HOUR" AT THE METHODIST CHURCH SUNDAY

Joining with 16 other denominations as well as eight and a half million Methodists across the nation, The Methodist Church of Antioch will observe "One Great Hour of Sharing" at the 11 o'clock service on Sunday morning.

A free-will offering for emergency missionary projects at home and abroad and the work of the Methodist Committee for Overseas Relief will be received.

The occasion is an annual observance throughout the Church to make possible the continuation of special projects of the Church stretching from Indian missions in America to the farthest corners of the earth.

Last year nearly a million dollars was raised in the Methodist church alone. Persons are urged to consult their local newspapers for the outstanding radio program "One Great Hour" which will be presented on this Saturday night as a prelude to Sunday's observance.

When Sick Call 6 - We Deliver

Your Income Tax

(By John T. Jarecki, Collector of Internal Revenue for the First District of Illinois)

Losses

From the point of view of income tax, not all losses are deductible from income. Those that are deductible, are clearly defined in the law and its judicial interpretations. Losses that are deductible must be incurred through: (1) activity connected with a trade or business, (2) transactions entered into for profit, although not connected with a trade or business, or (3) casualty. The first group, having to do with a trade or business, is quite clear from its definition and includes any loss incident to the normal operation of one's business. An example might be that of food spoiled during storage or preparation in a restaurant. Here we must make it clear that there is no additional deduction for the spoilage loss, other than the original charge to purchases. Inasmuch as the renting of real estate is classified as a trade or business, any loss resulting from the operation of rental property, would also come in this classification.

Transactions entered into for profit, although not connected with one's trade or business, include losses that may be incurred through investments or speculations in securities, commodities or other media suitable to the purpose. It is pertinent to observe here that gambling losses are not included in this deductible group and may be taken only to an extent, and not exceeding, reported gambling profits of the same period.

As we stated in the preceding article, casualty losses result from fire, theft, storm, flood and other sources that can be neither anticipated nor controlled. They need not be incurred on business property in order to be defined as deductible, but may include such misfortunes as the burning of one's residence or the furnishings thereof, the accidental damaging of one's pleasure car, the actual theft of one's wallet or the damage caused by wind or storm.

Higher Costs Rent Increases Continue To Be Granted Here

Landlords in the Lake-McHenry County rental area are continuing to get dollar-for-dollar rent increases covering higher costs of operating rent property if they make the proper petition to the rent office, it was stated today by J. Edwin Porter, Associate Rent Director.

The practical effect of changes in the rent regulations is to make many landlords eligible for rent increases, and to speed up the job of handling the landlord's requests, the rent office has amplified its procedures, the rent official said.

"We are going all the way helping landlords, particularly those who own just one or a few properties on which the rent has not changed, to get rent increases to compensate for the boost in prices of fuel, taxes, utilities and other operating expenses," Porter declared.

"All the landlord has to do is let us know what he is now paying for those items bought for his rental property and we can calculate the amount his costs have gone up without requiring him to show expenses four to six years ago."

While the new method is intended to help the small landlord who has had a rent adjustment, the rent official said it will also benefit the landlord whose costs continued to increase after a rent adjustment.

"In other words," he added, landlords will be fully compensated for higher operating costs. Every rent boost made under this policy will be necessary and justified by good business standards."

Woman's Club Enjoys Substitute Program When Speaker Fails

When the speaker failed to arrive, the Woman's club was treated to a quickly arranged program by two of its members, Mrs. Earl Hayes and Mrs. A. H. Kaufman Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Kaufman played two piano selections, and Mrs. Hayes gave an illustrated talk on china painting which is her hobby.

Members agreed that they enjoyed the impromptu program as much as had the scheduled speaker, Attorney John Noll, of Waukegan, appeared. Noll, it was said, is in Europe, and failed to get word to the program committee that he would not be present.

Tea was served by a committee comprising Mrs. Maurice Radke, Mrs. Frank Powles, Mrs. Morris Pickus, Mrs. Gust Mantis and Mrs. Earl Hayes.

Mrs. T. R. Birkhead had charge of the business meeting.

Salvation Army to Have Service Unit Committee In Antioch in Future

The Salvation Army will organize a Service Unit committee in Antioch. This announcement was made by Lt. Colonel Dallas P. Leader, Divisional Commander. Antioch is one of the 500 towns in the state that will have Salvation Army representatives.

The Antioch committee, Brigadier Leader states, will handle its own funds, conduct its own health and welfare program, give advice and direction to the Salvation Army as well as officially represent the Army here. The first 300 Service Units have already been established in Illinois and in nineteen states, the Service Unit plan is under way.

Brigadier Leader asks all business, professional, and industrial leaders, and all citizens to cooperate in the following manner:

Refuse to contribute to any person or persons representing the Salvation Army unless that person or persons carry with them the official authorization of the local committee;

Make all contributions to the local treasurer at the time of the annual campaign once a year;

Discontinue giving petty cash contribution to any collecting, either in box or tambourine, by persons supposedly representing the Salvation Army.

The Salvation Army field representative will organize the local Service Unit committee in the near future.

A truck driver drew up behind the car of the robbers while it waited for the Soo freight to pass unaware that he could have rammed the Ford and put it out of commission.

Refuse to Give Names
Federal agents, quickly on the scene refused to release the names of customers in the bank other than Studebaker who was injured. He was given first aid by Dr. D. N. Deering and then taken to St. Therese hospital in Waukegan for further care.

Because the holdup men wore gloves finger prints could not be taken by the FBI. One of the men lost his hat on Rte. 173, however, and it was found and turned over to the police by John Jimmerson of North Chicago.

The driver of the car was described as handsome and dressed in dark clothes.

Patrolman S. E. Burnette said he was checking parking meters walking toward the bank at the time the robbery occurred, but was some distance away when the bandits left. No other police were on duty at the time.

It is believed that it is only a matter of time before the robbers will be caught because of the persistent efforts of the federal men.

It was several days before bank employees and those witnessing the holdup recovered from the shock of the event.

"We're Really Rolling"

You have seen the slogan "We're Really Rolling" many times in our advertisements on Studebaker cars and trucks, but little did any of us realize that our local Studebaker dealer, Amiel Feyerabend, Inc., has really been rolling. Mr. Feyerabend has informed us that during the month of February the dealership set a new record in the sale of new Studebakers. He also asked me to mention that he has always tried to be very fair in the past and will make every effort in his power to give the fairest and squarest deal to future customers who wish to buy a new Studebaker, which in his words, is the finest car for the money on the road today.

An ad on USEFULNESS

Friend of ours was telling us about one of the most useful devices in the world.

"It works 24 hours a day for me," he said. "And never yet has let me down when I needed it most."

"Fact is, I use it to run all kinds of errands, carry messages to and from a steadily growing number of people, get help in emergencies, make friends and lots of other things. It saves me time, worry and money."

"Costs only a few nickels a day, too," he added.

"Must be a newfangled robot," we scoffed.

"No," he said. "You have one yourself—your telephone."

When you stop to think about it, few things are more useful than your telephone. Few things do so much for so little.

Mrs. Harold Kelvin of Lakeview subdivision, Lake Marie, was taken to Victory Memorial hospital Monday, where she will remain for observation.

Private Planes Fail to Match Use Prediction

CHICAGO. — A postwar world where everyone flew his own airplane and traffic cops of the sky kept the Sunday "flivver-fliers" in line has failed to materialize.

In fact, sales of private airplanes in 1949 ran approximately to only 6,000, whereas it had been freely predicted that more than a half-million civil aircraft would be in operation within 10 years after the war. Compared with 1948, when manufacturers sold 35,000 light planes for personal flying, the 1949 total was down some 600 percent.

Causes for the slump in sales of airplanes are legion says Leslie A. Bryan, director of University of Illinois' institute of aviation. He attributes chief costs to the still high prices on aircraft. Poor marketing may be another, he adds, plus high operating costs, limited utility, lack of safety, high depreciation, high insurance costs, inadequate service facilities and disturbing noises.

However, he pointed out that all these factors were similarly troublesome in the early years of the automobile.

Causes Lessening

Bryan said he found that most of these causes are lessening, just as they did with the progress of the horseless carriage. It is only a question of how soon, he says, there will be a transportation medium combining the best in the plane and the best in the automobile, although better than either is today.

Nevertheless, during the last year declines appeared in the number of airports, private pilot certificates issued, flight schools in operation, and personal aircraft manufactured. He sums up these elements of the private flying picture this way:

Airports—"It is probable 7,500 properly located airports would give a passably adequate landing area coverage for the United States," he says, adding that at the start of this year there were 6,414, with Texas in the lead with 624.

In addition, the airport operators council estimates 77 million dollars is available in state and municipally sponsored funds to match money granted under the Federal Airport Act for airport construction.

Half-Million Pilots

Pilots—There are now about 500,000 licensed airmen in the United States, or about five pilots for every registered airplane. Of this number, 10,000 are certificated air-line transport pilots, 210,000 commercial and 280,000 private. Then, there are over 100,000 student pilots.

Flight instruction now averages around $8.50 an hour, compared to $25 an hour and more before the war. It takes between 30 and 40 hours of instruction to obtain a private pilot license, including at least 10 hours of dual instruction.

"In many respects the present-day 35-hour pilot is equivalent or superior to the 200-hour pilot of 20 years ago, because of better standards of controlled instruction," Bryan declares. "Air training is now an established part of education in many schools, being taught both as a vocational and as a cultural subject."

Hearing Aid Battery Found to Hold Power Best if Refrigerated

NEW YORK. — Unlike bananas, hearing aid batteries should be kept in the refrigerator. That is the caution from one of the country's biggest dry cell battery makers.

Winter or summer, when not in use, surplus dry cell "A" batteries for hearing aids will last longer when kept at about the 45 degree Fahrenheit temperature of the average refrigerator, according to W. S. Allen, general manager, Electrical Division, Olin Industries, Inc.

As an added precaution, the batteries should be kept in a tightly sealed glass container which will reduce humidity and also prevent damage to the batteries by spilling anything on them in the refrigerator.

Economy-minded users of hearing aids customarily keep enough batteries on hand to rotate them in use, but unless these extra batteries are kept in a cool, dry place, they are likely to deteriorate, Allen warned, because the chemicals in a battery are harmed by heat.

Owing to the wide variety of hearing aids and the varied lengths of time which individual hearing aid owners use them, it is somewhat difficult to give more than rule of thumb advice on hearing aid "A" battery use and rotation. Generally it is a good idea to let a battery rest from two to three times longer than it is used. While a dry cell battery is "resting" it has the power to recuperate. It does not, however, recuperate to the extent of its original power.

The number of surplus batteries kept on hand is determined by the amount of use given a hearing aid. A full day's use is the maximum for any "A" battery to be used without rotation. It is a convenience in rotating batteries to number them and use them in order.

Nylon Plastic May Give Aid To Many Arthritis Victims

BOSTON. — Thousands of crippled arthritis victims have a chance of being able to walk normally again through the use of nylon.

Two Boston doctors—Dr. John Kuhns and Dr. Theodore A. Potter — have evolved a technique employing nylon which enables arthritis sufferers to move their wasted knee joints again.

A translucent sheet of nylon plastic is used as a "shock absorber" between the knee cap and the leg bone to prevent painful rubbing as the joint is articulated.

Treatment of damaged knee joints has bogged down in the past because the cushion of healthy tissue separating the bones has been eaten away. Attempts to insert tissue from the thigh between the knee bone ends failed to help.

Nylon plastic, the doctors said, had the advantages of not irritating the tissues, not absorbing water and not being affected by chemicals.

Woman Advocates Republicans Name Woman for Presidency

WASHINGTON.—There's a cure advanced for what ails the nation — elect a woman as President.

That's the formula of Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R., Me.) who recommended that the Republican party nominate a woman for the presidency in the 1952 election.

She had her reasons. They were: No. 1—A woman candidate would bring the party victory after five consecutive presidential election defeats and put a Republican in the White House.

No. 2—A woman would run the government on a strict budget "just as a housewife does."

Senator Smith, only woman member of the U. S. senate, gave her views on a radio interview.

Asked if she favored drafting women for the armed services, she replied:

"Draft them in time of war, just like men. In time of peace, no."

Largest Damage Suit Asks Defendants for 72 Billion

LOS ANGELES. — The largest damage claim in history has been filed here—a claim for 72 billion dollars made in federal court.

Arthur Van Dyke and E. A. Harrison, Los Angeles management consultants filed the mammoth complaint, alleging that figure represented their potential profit from a new metallic lubricant.

Defendants in the suit included Standard Oil company of California, several former employees and about 100 John Does.

The plaintiffs, who claim ownership of about 70 per cent of disputed stock, alleged that the defendants interfered with their efforts to sell the lubricant and caused the cancellation of an agreement to participate in profits from worldwide sales of the product.

They also claim that a sample of the lubricant was adulterated by the defendants, injuring its reputation.

Priests Sell Rare Antiques For Dime-Store Price Scale

CARTHAGE, TUNISIA.—Tourists with a taste for real antiques now can buy pottery treasures at dime-store prices right in the ruins of ancient Carthage.

The authenticity of their early Christian or even pre-Christian origins is vouched for by the learned Catholic "white fathers" in charge of excavations.

Their sale, in fact, is due to the enterprising fathers. In the past 70 years they have dug up more than their museum, the best of its kind in Africa, can hold.

A hundred francs, about 28 cents, will buy a little round pottery perfume bottle; for 500 francs one can have a slender tube or iridescent glass used by fourth century beauties to hold their perfumes.

Early Christian oil lamps, made from red clay with pressed flower or animal designs, with wick openings blackened by use showing through the mold and dust of centuries, are offered for 200 to 400 francs.

A tray of Punic coins, green with age but with beautiful animal traceries, carries a "100 francs each" price tag. The bargain special is a bowl of stone alms, shot balls at 10 francs per "bullet."

Forrestal Residence Leased As U.S. Visitor Guest House

WASHINGTON. — The federal government has leased the residence of the late James V. Forrestal, one-time U. S. defense secretary, as a guest house for distinguished foreign visitors. The announcement was made by the state department.

The lease, signed with Forrestal's widow, was to run from October 12, 1949, to June 30, 1950, with the right of renewal.

Situated at 3508 Prospect Avenue N. W., in the old Georgetown area of the city, the big Georgian brick house sets high on a bluff overlooking the Potomac river.

The house was leased fully furnished, with the Shah of Persia expected to be its first occupant.

Long Stretch
Stainless steel can be drawn into wire so fine that one pound will stretch out for 25 miles.

Douglas Fir

The Douglas fir is named in honor of David Douglas, a Scottish botanist who introduced it into Europe in 1827. The first report of Douglas fir was made by Archibald Menzies in 1792 at Nootka Sound, Vancouver Island, during the voyage of Captain Vancouver. It was the first species cut and exported from the Columbia river region by the Hudson's Bay Trading post at Vancouver, Washington.

Enamel for Trim

Semi-gloss enamel, which does not reflect such striking highlights as the high gloss type usually employed for kitchens and bathrooms, is generally preferred for the trim in the living, dining and sleeping rooms of a household. Both types are easy to keep clean.

Marvelous Firefly

In firefly luminescence, almost no energy is lost as heat or ultraviolet rays. By comparison, man-made gas and electric light involves 90 per cent or more energy loss as heat. Even the sun's energy is converted to light in only one-third proportion, scientists say.

Feeders Aid Pullets

Low feeding and watering equipment will assist in training the pullets to use their new furniture in the laying house. It pays to have a range feeder and waterer in the pen for a few days while the pullets become adjusted to the new condition.

Cost of Strikes

There were 300 strikes in the U.S. during July, 1949, involving 110,000 workers, according to the U.S. bureau of labor statistics. These strikes meant that 16,800,000 man-hours of production and earning capacity were lost. Based on an average hourly pay of $1.38, workers lost $2,318,400,000 in wages. An average industrial worker whose weekly wage is $55.20, on strike four weeks, lost a total of $220.80 in pay.

Origin of "Limey"

English sailors are often called "limeys." This name originated in the 1700's when British seamen carried crates of limes on their ships. They discovered that the disease of scurvy could be prevented by drinking the sharp, sour juice of this citrus fruit.

"Friendly" Fox

Normal, healthy foxes are retiring and always try to avoid people. But rabid foxes are aggressive, and their boldness may take the form of friendliness. The same goes for squirrels, skunks, and other wild animals. Like dogs, they transmit rabies by biting.

Laundry Tubs

Square-shaped laundry tubs are now on the market. These tubs are especially suitable for use in small laundry rooms because they fit closely together or flush against a wall, leaving no wasted space. Made of rust-resistant galvanized steel, such tubs give many years of useful service.

John Adams

John Adams was the first President to live in the White House. He was the second President of the United States and the first Vice-President, serving two terms in that office under George Washington.

Panama Hats

The fiber and the fingers of workers are kept moist during the weaving of Panama hats, but the hats are not woven under water, as many believe.

Matanuska Valley

Harvesting in the Matanuska Valley, Alaska's richest farming district, is a large-scale operation. The farms that lie in this fertile valley have produced 20-pound turnips and cabbages weighing as much as 50 pounds.

Mine Safety Measures

The nation's coal producers spend scores of millions of dollars a year on tangible, physical safety measures. But equally important, they conduct an extensive and persisting campaign to educate and to remind the men to do their jobs the safe, careful way. And these efforts are producing results.

Fox Is Foxy

Sir Reynard, the unscrupulous little red fox, is really as foxy and cunning as the tales and fables claim he is. A captured fox will sometimes pretend to be dead. He will endure the roughest of punishment without showing any sign that he is alive but will run away as soon as he is free.
